The Inspira Management Club signifies the transformation of MCC's BMS department's Annual Fest, Inspira, into an educational club now managed by BMS students at Mulund College of Commerce. Students from both the BMS and BBA departments participated enthusiastically in on-campus events. The Inspira Management Club comprises four houses: Zenith, Enigma, Nexgen, and Empyrean. IMC organized four events, Entreleague by ZENITH, Bazigar by EMPYREAN. Supply Chain Conclave by ENIGMA. Trinity Chaos by NEXGEN.

The primary objective in transforming Inspira from an annual fest into a management club was to provide students with engaging and educational activities every month. In our inaugural year, we've witnessed remarkable success with significant student participation. Our events, spanning themes such as entrepreneurship, finance, and HR, have created a dynamic learning environment. We look forward for more enriching experiences as we continue to cultivate knowledge, skills, and success within our club.

Over the years, Inspira has left a strong impact by inspiring students to take initiative, think creatively, and develop leadership qualities that go beyond the classroom. With every event, the club continues to transform into a hub of strategy, innovation, and entrepreneurial excellence.

The Inspira Management Club also serves as a bridge between academic learning and real-world application. By simulating corporate challenges and presenting case-based scenarios, the club enables students to experience decision-making under pressure.

This approach not only strengthens their analytical thinking but also cultivates adaptability, which is essential in the fast-changing global business environment

Another important aspect of Inspira is the emphasis on collaboration and peer-to-peer learning. Students from diverse backgrounds and courses come together to share ideas, exchange perspectives, and build networks. This interaction enhances cultural awareness, strengthens interpersonal communication, and encourages a spirit of inclusivity that prepares them for leadership roles in entrepreneurial worlds. The corporate and Inspira is not just a management club; it is a transformative journey that empowers students to grow as thinkers, leaders, and innovators. With every event and initiative, the club continues to inspire excellence, instill confidence, and create lasting value for its members. # MICRO-REJECTIONS IN DAILY LIFE AND THEIR INVISIBLE IMPACT ON SELF-ESTEEM

In today's connected world, many young Indians face small, unintentional dismissals called micro-rejections. These include being ignored, left out, or unnoticed in daily life or online. Though they seem minor, repeated experiences can strongly affect self-esteem. These moments often happen without bad intent, but they still create feelings of exclusion. For young people building their identity, this can slowly reduce confidence and sense of belonging.

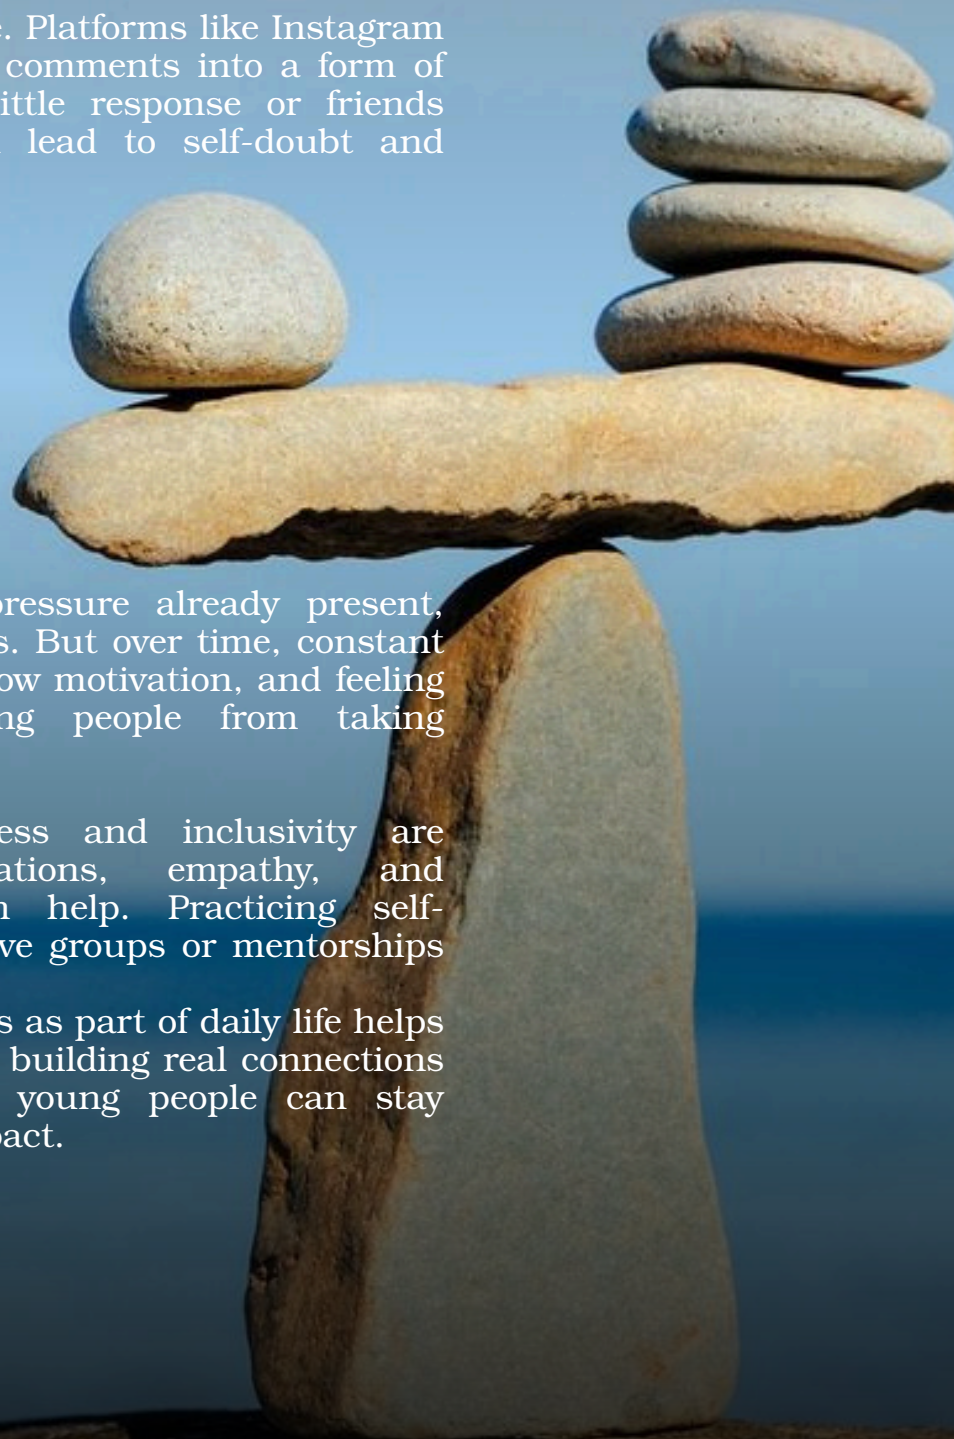

Social media makes this worse. Platforms like Instagram and Facebook turn likes and comments into a form of validation. When posts get little response or friends interact without you, it can lead to self-doubt and feelings of isolation.

With academic and social pressure already present, many ignore these experiences. But over time, constant rejection can lead to anxiety, low motivation, and feeling "not good enough," stopping people from taking opportunities.

To deal with this, awareness and inclusivity are important. Open conversations, empathy, and supportive communities can help. Practicing self-compassion and joining positive groups or mentorships can rebuild confidence.

Understanding micro-rejections as part of daily life helps people handle them better. By building real connections and supporting each other, young people can stay confident and reduce their impact.

In the heart of Mumbai,
life moves fast
And the local train makes sure no one is left behind.

THE RUSH

Every morning begins the same,
Running footsteps, calling names,
A quick jump in before the door,
Finding space on that crowded floor.

THE PEOPLE

There's hardly room, yet people adjust,
A little patience, a little trust.
A stranger moves, another smiles,
And somehow we fit just for a while.

From tired faces to hopeful eyes,
Each person carries their own life.
Dreams, struggles, silent pain,
All travel together in one train.

THE EMOTION

Vendors shout, friends laugh loud,
Someone stands, someone's proud.
In that chaos, there's something real
A shared journey that we all feel.

The Mumbai Suburban Railway isn't just tracks and speed,
It's people, stories, and daily need.

More than a ride, it's a way of life,
Full of rush, yet strangely kind.
In every push and every mile,
Mumbai teaches us to survive with a smile.

MUMBAI LOCAL TRAIN

“ A city that never stops,
and a train that never lets it. ”

MOTHER'S ETERNAL LOVE

In gentle hands and caring eyes,
A world of endless love there lies.
Through every storm, through every tear,
A mother's voice brings calm and cheer.

Her silent strength, her endless care,
Is felt in moments we all share.
She gives her all, yet asks so less,
A life of pure selflessness.

In darkest nights, she is the light,
Guiding us toward what is right.
Her love, so deep, will never fade,
In every prayer, her touch is laid.

No words can match what she has done,
A constant star, a rising sun.
Forever grateful, hearts agree,
A mother's love is eternity.

COLLEGE LIFE

In corridors filled with dreams so wide,
We walk with hope and youthful pride.
Books in hand, yet hearts that roam,
Searching for a place called "home."

Lectures drift like passing breeze,
Some we catch, some we just seize.
Deadlines rush, exams draw near,
Yet laughter echoes loud and clear.

Friends become our chosen kin,
Through every loss and little win.
Late-night talks and shared delight,
Turn ordinary days to bright.

Between the stress and carefree days,
We find ourselves in countless ways.
For college life, both sweet and wise,
Is where our truest self will rise.

THE POWER OF PASSION

Passion is a critical driver of excellence and long-term success in both personal and professional domains. It reflects a deep sense of commitment and enthusiasm that enables individuals to pursue their goals with clarity and determination. When individuals are genuinely passionate about their work, it enhances engagement, improves productivity, and contributes significantly to overall performance.

One of the most important benefits of passion is its ability to sustain perseverance. In today's dynamic and competitive environment, challenges and setbacks are inevitable. Passion equips individuals with the resilience required to overcome obstacles and remain focused on their objectives. It fosters a growth mindset, encouraging continuous learning, adaptability, and the ability to improve with experience.

In addition, passion plays a vital role in promoting creativity and innovation. Professionals who are deeply invested in their work tend to think more critically, explore new ideas, and develop effective solutions. This not only enhances individual capabilities but also contributes to organizational growth and competitive advantage.

Passion also positively influences workplace culture. Passionate individuals often inspire and motivate others through their dedication and proactive approach. Their enthusiasm can enhance team collaboration, strengthen relationships, and create an environment that supports high performance and shared success.

Passion must be complemented by discipline, strategic planning, and consistent effort to achieve sustained success. While passion provides the initial drive, it alone is not sufficient without a structured approach. Without proper direction, even the strongest enthusiasm can lose focus over time. Therefore, it is essential to align passion with clear objectives, effective time management, and continuous learning. When supported by focus and consistent execution, passion becomes a powerful catalyst for long-term professional growth and meaningful outcomes.

In conclusion, the power of passion lies in its ability to transform potential into performance. When effectively harnessed and supported by discipline, it drives resilience, innovation, and leadership, ultimately contributing to both individual achievement and organizational success.

ASSITANT PROFESSOR

Twenty years at Mulund College of Commerce have been more than a career, they have been a journey of the heart. This institution has quietly shaped who I am, moulding my personality with every experience, every challenge, and every moment of growth.

WHAT I WILL CHERISH THE MOST IS THE BOND WITH MY STUDENTS. MENTORING THEM HAS BEEN MY GREATEST SOURCE OF JOY AND JOB SATISFACTION. IN GUIDING THEM, I DISCOVERED THAT I WAS LEARNING TOO, THEIR ENERGY, CURIOSITY, AND HONESTY BECOMING MY GREATEST TEACHERS.

There were moments of challenge, but it was the positive spirit of students that carried me through. Their smiles, resilience, and enthusiasm gave me strength when I needed it the most.

As I look back, I don't just see years, I see relationships, lessons, and a part of myself that will always belong here.

“ I MAY LEAVE MCC,
BUT MCC
WILL NEVER LEAVE ME.”

BEYOND THE CLASSROOM: THE REAL ESSENCE OF COLLEGE LIFE

College is often perceived as a place for academic learning, but in reality, it is much more than lectures, assignments, and examinations. It is a transformative journey that shapes not only careers but also personalities, values, and perspectives.

One of the most significant aspects of college life is the exposure it provides. Students come from diverse backgrounds, bringing with them different ideas, cultures, and experiences. This diversity creates an environment of learning beyond textbooks, encouraging open-mindedness and mutual respect. It is here that students begin to understand the importance of collaboration, communication, and adaptability.

Another vital element of college life is the opportunity to explore and discover one's true potential. Whether it is participating in cultural events, leading student organizations, engaging in sports, or contributing to social initiatives, these experiences play a crucial role in overall development. They help in building confidence, leadership skills, and a sense of responsibility

College is also a time of challenges and self-discovery. Managing academic pressure, deadlines, and personal commitments can be overwhelming. However, these challenges teach resilience, time management, and problem-solving skills—qualities that are essential for success in the professional world.

Equally important are the friendships formed during these years. College friendships often turn into lifelong bonds, built on shared experiences, struggles, and achievements. These relationships provide emotional support and create memories that are cherished forever.

In today's rapidly evolving world, college education also emphasizes the importance of continuous learning and skill development. It prepares students not just for jobs, but for careers and lifelong growth. The focus is gradually shifting from theoretical knowledge to practical application, innovation, and critical thinking.

In conclusion, college life is a blend of learning, growth, challenges, and unforgettable experiences. It is a phase that lays the foundation for the future while creating memories for a lifetime. What truly matters is not just the degree earned, but the person one becomes along the journey.

ETERNALLY

You're lying there,
And I don't know if you can hear me.
They say you can't.
They say not to get my hopes up.
But I still talk.

I tell you about all the stupid things that happened today.
I play your favourite song and imagine you prancing around.
I complain about the coffee just to annoy
you,
I hold your hand like you might squeeze
back.

Maybe you won't.
Maybe you can't.
But I suppose my love doesn't wait for permission.

It doesn't leave just because you stopped answering.
It doesn't shrink because the days are long and the nights are worse.
It doesn't tap out when things get unbearable.

My love stays.
With all its might.
With all its heart.
Just for you.

It sits next to you.
Still hoping,
That something in you knows I'm here.

HERE

PRANAV BAGADE
TYBMS A

And on the days I feel small,
When the sound of the machine makes
my ears ring,
And I feel like I'm losing you inch by inch,
Love is the only thing that doesn't move.

It doesn't change in brief hours or weeks.
It doesn't get tired of waiting.
It doesn't ask for anything in return.

It just stays.
Even at the edge.
Even when fear is sitting in my chest.
Even when my heartbeat is louder than the machine.
Even when I don't know how this ends.

Because when love is real,
It just stays.
It doesn't need certainty.
It just refuses to leave.

If you wake up, I'll tell you about all of this,
If you don't, just know I never once left.
Love didn't need you to answer back,
It just needed you :)
